

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of operating a power system is includes operating an internal combustion engine so as to produce an engine vacuum, and advancing air into a fuel reformer with the engine vacuum. The method also includes advancing reformat gas
5 produced by the fuel reformer to a component such as the intake of the engine, an emission abatement device, or a fuel cell. A power system operated by such a method is also disclosed.